Trying to please the whole family on vacation is a challenge, to say the very least. On the one hand, parents are after a unique experience and want to expose their children to a new place and culture. However, parents also understand the true value of keeping their children occupied. Going on back-to-back historical walking tours of a city might not be what works for the whole family. The perfect compromise is to pick a hotel in a destination you—the adult—are excited about that also specifically caters to not just children, but your children's specific age group. These 11 high-end hotels have tailored programming for tweens, families, and adults:

Kokomo Private Island, Fiji

Kokomo Private Island Fiji

Located in Fiji's remote Celestial Kadavu Island group, a 45-minute helicopter or seaplane flight from Nadi, Kokomo Private Island—an American Express Fine Hotels & Resorts property, is a five-star resort that will please water-lovers of all ages. Kokomo's new Family Escape package specifically caters to multi-generational families and offers a complimentary upgrade to the next room category and unlimited nanny services for the duration of the stay. The nanny services could allow younger tweens (nine-ish) to explore with someone who isn't their parent, or give older tweens (age 12 or 13) the freedom to explore with a friend while a nanny watches their younger siblings. Perfect for an adventurous tween, the Family Escape package includes one tank scuba dive per villa at Kokomo's kids' club. With multi-room buresses (thatched-roof villas) and a club for tween-aged kids, your pre-teen will enjoy time with the family and with children their own age.
