

They call it barefoot luxury!

The Kokomo

CHILL

Escape to the blue lagoon on Fiji's most idyllic private island

TIP

For more information about kicking back on Kokomo Island, visit
kokomoislandfiji.com

Pristine reefs and abundant marine life await!

Prince Harry and Duchess Meghan snuck in a private night's stay in Fiji last year

You know there's something special about an island getaway celebs can't stay away from. Kokomo joins an exclusive league of five-star resorts leveraging Fiji's reputation for luxury accommodation.

Part of the Kadavu island group and known as Yaukuve to Fijians, it's a tropical destination from Central Casting, about an hour from Nadi International Airport.

As you alight from your Twin Otter seaplane, you'll instantly feel wrapped in warm silk. Pebbled pathways are lined with lush greenery and the saturated colours of hibiscus, bromeliads and bougainvillea.

LUXE LIVING

The 21 beachfront villas and five luxury hilltop residences have their own gardens, infinity pool, indoor and outdoor showers and living spaces, several daybed options, kitchen, big sunken bath, walk-in wardrobe and his/hers vanity stations. Champagne with that? Of course. Guests can snorkel, dive, fish, picnic on remote beaches, kayak, paddleboard, swim with manta rays, visit a village, join a coral planting program or check out the turtle sanctuary.

RETREAT YOURSELF

Yaukuve Spa Sanctuary is nestled in a lush garden and offers pampering from yoga classes to spa cuisine, smoothies and juices, a medicinal herb garden, double treatment rooms, a wellness library and a pond. On the menu: exfoliation, body wraps and polishes, and massages and facials using natural Sodashi products from Western Australia. The signature massage? Pacific Mastery (aka the Fijian Bombo), using deep tissue techniques and essential oil blends including frankincense and palmarosa.

EAT & PLAY

Food is as natural and local as can be. Mahi-mahi, Spanish mackerel, coral trout and Fijian sweetlips swim to the front door, and there's a seafood larder about an hour away with yellow fin tuna and deep sea snapper. Herbs, tomatoes, lemongrass, eggplant, maize and zucchini flourish in the market garden. There's a bakery and free-range chickens.

Looking to burn kilojoules?

Try tennis, do a workout at the gym or enjoy a walk to Kokomo Lookout. A nearby island offers hiking to spectacular waterfalls.

Kokomo's philosophy is one of barefoot luxury... which is just as it should be on an island finding its own rhythm.

The resort's luxury residences offer striking ocean views

Relax by the infinity pool with a sundowner

Beachfront villas offer open-plan living, comfort and absolute privacy

Kokomo Island Fiji provides an unrivalled retreat for families and a haven for honeymooners

