

KOKOMO, FIJI

Nobody does flop-and-drop like the Fijians, but this Yaukuve Island paradise brings bespoke luxury into the all-inclusive mix. The insanely beautiful private island resort sets the holiday mood in place from the moment of arrival – in the resort’s private seaplane, no less.

Owned by Australian property mogul, Lang Walker, who knows prestige, the resort features standalone villas that feel purpose-built for romance. There’s also two three-bedroom family villas right on the beach, as well as a kids’ club and nannies on duty. It’s the dream family holiday destination for parents who don’t want to feel like they are on a family holiday 24/7, stacked with opportunities to sip cocktails or kayak.

The food is fresh and fabulous and the spa is outrageously relaxing. You’ll never want to leave the resort – even if you’re not built to travel that way.
