These are the most exclusive island getaways we want to be at right now.

If you're looking for seclusion, then an island paradise is the way to go. Whilst whisking away on a private jet right now isn't quite on the cards for most of us, that doesn't mean we can't dream a little.

As we get used to socially distanced routines, perhaps our next holidays will also demand a certain level of isolation -- with all the modern comforts at your fingertips and an incredible vista to boot. For that, here are some of the best luxury island resorts and villas in the world for the ultimate off-the-grid holiday destination.

Kokomo, Fiji

With uninterrupted views of the Great Astrolabe Reef, Kokomo in Fiji is accessible only by seaplane or by helicopter. Traced by pristine white beaches and boasting a backdrop of lush rainforest, the resort offers guests complete privacy with its beachfront villas. If you're not the type who enjoys sharing pools with other guests (let's be honest, who does?) then this is the place to be — each room comes with a private infinity pool and private deck with direct beach access. Isolation in paradise, check.
